

The Propex Heatsource range of propane fuelled compact air heaters are designed to provide an efficient and economical source of heat, independent of the engine, for both vehicle and marine applications. Designed for ease of installation, they provide quiet, maintenance free operation and are easy to control using our electronic thermostat which, features both temperature control as well as a facility to run the fan on its own. Two models are available, the HS2000 with a heat output of 6,500 Btu's and the HS2800, 10,000 Btu version. Both are available in 12v or 24v versions and are supplied with complete fitting kits for either vehicle or marine.
